Hi Marcia,

Any thoughts on this question?

Karen

Hey Karen, I'm not sure who best to direct this tom but maybe you can help me out.
Under 60.5370(d), it states:

You are deemed to be in compliance with this subpart if you are in compliance with all applicable provisions of subpart 0000a of this part.

So if I have an affected source under 0000, if I apply all the requirements in 0000a to this source, I would be in compliance with 0000. I am assuming I could also include these sources in my 0000a report. Would I then no longer have to submit a 0000 report for that source? If I choose to do that, is there a notification required stating that is being done?

Example, I have a reciprocating compressor subject to the requirements of 0000 and annual reports are being submitted in accordance with 0000. Currently, this compressor is meeting all of the requirements under 0000a as well. Can I cease reporting under 0000 and just add it to the annual 0000a report? Is a notification required under 0000 or Subpart A

Thank you!!
